LOCAL SHARE MARKET BRIGHTENS

Indicative Of Prosperous Times INFLUENCE OF CANTON GOVERNMENT

Satisfaction with the steady attitude of the new Government in Canton has stimulated confidence amongst Chinese merchants and dealers in the Colony, and this feeling of genuine confidence is being reflected in a great variety of ways in business circles.

It was ascertained yesterday by a representative of the "Daily Press" during a special inquiry tour of "the city," that a very considerable increase in the actual importation of money had taken place recently, and this increase was being maintained.

It was stated by leading brokers that the local market had not been so buoyant for a considerable time, and that buoyancy was backed by a feeling of solid confidence.

Mainly because it was settlement day on the local Stock Exchange yesterday, business was consequently on the quiet side. Most brokers concentrated on settling-up their books. However, although there was, but little in the way of dealings, yet the optimistic mood was as definite as the weather, though not as devastating in its purpose.

It was natural that animated discussions took place concerning the Manila gold share market. It was the general consensus of opinion that the state of the Manila market was decidedly healthy. The fact that more gold and still more gold is being taken out is proof of the genuineness of the major undertakings which have been operating for a respectable period.

Dealings from Hong Kong on the Manila market have increased enormously of recent date, and with remarkably beneficial results to the local investors. So, with financial buoyancy within and without the Colony, it seems reasonable to re-echo the sentiments expressed by several business executives yesterday with whom the "Daily Press" representative discussed the subject. "Everything seems set for a moderately prosperous time."

Perhaps the Hong Kong Travel Association might not be too much in the clouds to accept a suggested caption in view of this "city" information:—"You can't go wrong if you stay in Hong Kong."

Anyway, things seem much better than they were. Perhaps it's time we all started remarking, "Wasn't the depression awful," emphasising that first word all you can.

HON. MR. NORTH APPOINTED O. A. G.

Other Changes Gazetted

Following the temporary incapacity of His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, C.M.G., C.B.E., the Hon. Mr. Roland Arthur Charles North, Colonial Secretary, yesterday assumed the administration of the Government and took the prescribed oath.

Sir Andrew is confined to the Victoria Hospital suffering from an inflammation of shingles on the right temple and will be indisposed for about two weeks.

Mr. Robert Andrew Dermot Forrest has been appointed Acting Colonial Secretary, a post which he held from September 13 to October 31 last year, when the Hon. Sir Thomas Southorn (now Governor of the Gambia), who was then Officer Administering the Government, was sick. The Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, then Secretary for Chinese Affairs, and who has since been appointed Colonial Secretary here, was O. A. G. during that period. The Hon. Mr. Smith is at present on home leave.

His Excellency the Hon. Mr. North was born in 1889 and was appointed a Cadet Officer on November 16, 1912. Since then he has been mostly connected with the Colonial Secretariat Office but has also held the posts of Secretary for Chinese Affairs, acting Assistant Superintendent of Police and acting First Clerk and Magistrate.

His Excellency will preside this afternoon's meeting of the Legislative Council which will be the first in his capacity as Officer Administering the Government.

Mr. David Mercer MacDougall is appointed Principal Assistant Colonial Secretary and Clerk of Councils.

Mr. John Henry Burkill Lee is appointed Deputy Clerk of Councils. His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government has appointed Mr. Humphrey John Crutwell to be his Private Secretary, and Lieutenant (Local Captain) William John Roto Cragg, 1st Battalion, The Lincolnshire Regiment, to be his Aide-de-Camp.

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government has appointed the following officers to be his Honorary Aides-de-Camp, with effect from this date:—
Captain Thomas Addis Martin, Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps.

Lieutenant Rupert Harold Stocker, Hong Kong and Singapore Brigade, Royal Artillery.

TYPHOON DAMAGE TO RAILWAY

SUPPLEMENTARY VOTE OF $4,800

"Fortunate To Escape Lightly"

"We were extremely fortunate in that the damage sustained by the railway during the recent typhoon were so small," said Mr. R. D. Walker, Manager and Chief Engineer of the Kowloon-Canton railway. As was to be expected, the greater part of the damage was confined to Kowloon and Hung-hom, where out of a total estimate of $5,000, no less than $3,500 is to be applied. The remaining $1,500 will be used for the repair of damage done to the Territories line.

When it is remembered that from Tai-po to Shatin the railroad runs parallel to Tidal Cove, and is exposed at every point, the railway was very fortunate in escaping so lightly. No losses were experienced in regard to the moving stock, the whole being applied to the buildings and property.

Railway Pier suffered considerable strain during the heavy seas; the carriage sheds at Hung-hom came through with some damage to the roofs and the usual broken windows and such other minor details, the railings around the Kowloon station were torn up in parts, and these will account for the major portion of the expenditure.

It was only the strength of the rail itself and the concrete covering of the embankment that saved the company from greater damages and expense in that direction.

To cover these losses a supplementary vote of $4,800 is to be asked for to-day at a meeting of the Finance Committee.

KILTS FOR CHINESE!

Gordon's Go Cheap

Volunteers' Property Auctioned

What Aberdeenshire will say about it is nobody's business, but the fact remains that a Chinese opened the bidding yesterday morning at Messrs. Lammert's public auction with 50 cents when twelve Gordon tartan kilts were offered!

That the kilts, together with a great assortment of equipment such as boots, helmets, bandoliers, tunics, tags and motor cycles, were the property of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps is beside the point—that staggering shattering, soul-searing, etc., fact shall remain embedded in the Sands of Time—50 cents for a kilt!

But there was some chivalry and business acumen amongst that moist crowd which gazed almost spellbound at the voluble auctioneer, Mr. L. E. Lammert, because one named Alistair Hamish Douglas Kwong bid $1.22 a piece for the glorious tartans, thereby raising Scotia's reputation above the dollar level.

"You can take these kilts to Canton and start a Scotch army there," brazenly admonished the cheery auctioneer with refreshing disregard for international complications.

Compare $1.22 for a kilt of Gordon tartan (the number of yards is astronomical) with $2 for "a collection of khaki helmets formerly used by members of the mounted troop" of the volunteers. Surely one kilt is worth a wilderness of helmets? But no!

Almost nine-years-old motor cycles were started at $5, and eventually one went for $34 and the other for $31. If they started and went as quickly as the bidding, then the two chaps who bought them will be on winners for any road-hogging escapades anyone can conceive.

Equipped with those kilts and those motor cycles—and, of course, an unlimited letter of credit—one might be able to go a long way, yea, even to another public auction of volunteers' equipment.—Perhaps.

UNIFICATION OF CHINA

Blessing To Chinese And Foreigners

Nanking.
"The unification of China is not only a blessing to the Chinese people, but also a blessing to those foreign countries whose nationals have commercial interests in China. Therefore, no friendly nation should, in any way, hamper our work of unification, inasmuch as if our house is not in order no one can enjoy living in it."

This statement was made by Dr. Jefferson D. H. Lamb (Lin Tung-hai), senior counsellor of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, in the course of a radio talk at the Central Broadcasting Station on the night of Aug. 17 on "The Unification of China."

Dr. Lamb allayed the fear prevalent among a part of the foreign nationals residing in China that as soon as China is united they will be deprived of their commercial interests, and will even be driven out of the country. This wrong assumption, in his opinion, arises from ignorance on their part of the aims of the Chinese Revolution, and hence failure to discern the motives of China's national unity.

MEANS TO PROSPERITY

The unification of China will only safeguard their commercial interests, and make it possible for them to enjoy the peace and prosperity of a friendly nation instead of living in constant fear and mutual suspicion, the eminent diplomat averred.

"Frankly speaking," Dr. Lamb said, "had it not been for foreign aggression of recent years China would have been on the right track to recovery, both financial and political." In view of the present stage China has reached in national unification while the Chinese people should exert their utmost efforts to bring the task to a successful end, foreign nations should by no means hamper the work, if they want their commercial interests in China well safeguarded and peace in the Far East well maintained.

To the question whether China can be really united and, if so, how long this unity will last, Dr. Lamb saw the answer in the unification of two dynamic countries in Europe, namely, Germany and Italy. "With proper leadership once a country is really united, it will likely stay united, and there is every reason to expect that China, like Germany and Italy, will remain a unified modern nation," he declared.

THE WORK OF UNIFICATION

Tracing the work of unification of China, Dr. Lamb said that it may be said to begin in 1926, when General Chiang Kai-shek led the Northern Expedition northward from Canton with a view to eliminating all the corrupt elements of the pseudo government in Peking (now called Peiping), and setting up a government of law.

"With many well-trained officers and the well-equipped army, together with the whole-hearted support of the Chinese people General Chiang and his associate generals had practically achieved unity in 1928, a year after the establishment of the National Government in Nanking. Unfortunately, however, the dissension among the rank and file in the Kuomintang temporarily obstructed the work of unification." The Mukden Incident of Sept. 18, 1931, Dr. Lamb pointed out, gave another impetus to unification as it made the responsible officials in various parts of the country realize the necessity of a united front against foreign aggression.

From that time onward the harder the aggressors pressed us the more determined we became, to unify the country, and with the peaceful and proper solution of the seemingly difficult problem of the Southwest, China is now well on her way to genuine national unification, Dr. Lamb remarked.

Dr. Lamb lauded the patriotism and statesmanship of Mr. Tang Shao-yi, veteran Kuomintang statesman, and 31 Cantonese members of the Central Executive Committee in timely submitting the proposal for the abolition of the Southwest Political Council and the Southwest Executive Committee, which hastened the liquidation of the Southwest issue.

THE OTHER PROVINCES

Even the outlying provinces and regions such as Kansu, Chinghai, Sinkiang, Szechwan, Sikong and Tibet, Dr. Lamb continued, have in recent years been brought into closer cooperation with the Central Government. In 1932 during Mr. Wang Ching-wei's administration as President of the Executive Yuan, two commissioners were sent to Sinkiang in the persons of General Huang Mu-sung as a special commissioner to "comfort" the Sinkiang people, and Dr. Lo Wan-kan as high commissioner to investigate the Sinkiang situation with a view to properly settling the political and diplomatic problems of this vast and important frontier province.

In 1934 upon the death of the late Dalai Lama the Central Government sent the first special mission to Tibet since the establishment of the Chinese Republic in 1912. This goodwill mission headed by General Kuang Mu-sung also investigated the conditions in Szechwan and Sikong, and as a result of this, the frontier-provinces and regions are now brought into much closer relations with Nanking.

With the leadership of General Chiang, Mr. Wang Ching-wei, Mr. Sun Fo and others China will be able to stand on her own feet, provided she is left alone and free to work out her own salvation, Dr. Lamb concluded.

NEWS ITEMS FROM LONDON

THE DUCES SONS

Apparently at Signor Mussolini's wish, the visit of his sons Bruno and Vittorio to Berlin is being kept extremely quiet.

A friend there tells me that no mention has been made of their arrival, and that they will attend no official functions. Their visit to the Olympic Stadium went quite unnoticed.

They will stay in Berlin for at least a few days longer in order to witness further athletic contests.

Rumours of an intended visit by Count and Countess Ciano, the Duce's son-in-law and daughter, are persistent, but lack official confirmation.

FROM PATRON TO ADMIRAL
No such rigid application of the rules was enforced when King Edward VII, as Prince of Wales, was elected to the R.Y.S. In 1863 he had become its patron, in succession to the Prince Consort, but was not an active member until two years later.

At that time he had no yacht of his own. The following year, however, he acquired the 37-ton cutter Dagnar.

It was not until 1876, the year before he bought his first racing yacht, that he purchased a racing yacht, the schooner Hespersus. Britannia was commissioned in 1892.

King Edward VII's interest in yacht racing diminished after 1897. He continued to pay regular visits to the Squadron as its first admiral.

Cowes Castle has been the R.Y.S. headquarters for 80 years. It was originally one of the two "cowes," or forts, built by Henry VIII, to guard Portsmouth Harbour.

JULIUS FLAUVIUS

July made few friends. It had a grumbling Press. In fairness, therefore, I should point out that its meteorological record is not a particularly bad one.

Rainfall in London was hardly more than the average—2.28in. Compared with 1918, when there was 6.57in, or even 1920 (3.46in), this July was quite well behaved. Where it failed was in sunshine. It registered 147 hours—only three more than the very wet July of 1918. In 1928, when the rainfall (2.8in) was greater than this year, there were 164 hours of sunshine.

Its real misfortune was to follow the July of 1935. That month there were 287 hours of sunshine in London and a rainfall of just over half an inch.

CHAHAR'S PROGRESS

Reconstruction Work
Is Proceeding Apace

INTER-PROVINCE ROADS LINKING HOPEI PUSHED

Kalgan.
Despite financial stringency and political instability in the northern portion of the province, reconstruction work in Chahar in the form of highway building, afforestation, mining, water conservancy, animal husbandry, and unemployment relief is being carried out strenuously by the reconstruction department.
To facilitate communication between Chahar and Hopei, repair work on the Changping highway has been started. The highway between Huailai and Yuhsein, 50 li and 140 li east and southeast of Kalgan respectively, has been linked, while road-rebuilding work is now going on from Tanfan village to Chuoluh, 75 li south of Kalgan.
For the promotion of water conservancy and irrigation projects, a sum of $4,200 has been secured from a collection of a 10% surtax from houses and shops in order to repair the Hsichu dyke, which will be completed before September. The embankment, when completed will protect Kalgan from future flood disaster.

Convinced at the same time that afforestation will help fight future floods, droughts and other natural calamities, the local authorities have allotted $6,300 to afforest the Shuimukung Forest Park.

Since the discovery of rich coal reserve in the Chuchlachu coal mine at Hsuanhua, about 30 li south of Kalgan, plans for the exploitation of the underground resources there have been mapped out by the bureau. Private capital will be invited to develop the mines.

To extend the long-distance telephone network, an additional $2,400 will be allotted for the construction of a line between Yuhsein and Hsichulin, which will be linked up with the Hopei line. Surveying work has been started by the head office of the long-distance telephone service.

Flocks of the unemployed in the province will soon obtain work as all district authorities have been instructed to widely establish handicraft factories. The annual budget of each factory is fixed at $1,000 upwards.

Attention has also been paid to the promotion of the animal husbandry industry. Scientific poultry houses will be built whereas domestic animals of western genus will also be introduced to local farmers.

COLONIAL AIMS

GERMAN JOURNALIST'S TALK TO LIBERALS

London, August 5.

Dr. Karl von Ahlshagen, a German journalist resident in London, addressing the Liberal Summer School at Oxford yesterday, said the idea that Germany might go to war in order to win her colonies back seemed too preposterous to any German to make it necessary for him to discuss it at all. The evidence that common sense and good will would prevail in the end made it equally unnecessary for him to discuss the views of people in this country and in any other war-profiteering countries in the colonial field who thought that they could get away from the problem by simply using the phrase, "What we have we keep."

Germany did not raise any new or unlimited claims in the colonial field, but what she did claim were her rightful possessions which she had held in the past. The economic side of the problem, important though it was, had been over emphasized, having been looked upon as the root of the whole trouble. What came first in the minds of the German people when they thought of the question at all was the matter of honour and justice. Germany would never admit that the action which she was compelled to take in 1919 at the point of the bayonet and on the threat of starvation for her women and children in handing over her colonies gave any right of possession in favour of the Allies.

Sir Arthur Salter, speaking at the evening meeting, said that the Treaty of Versailles and the accompanying documents included a great deal of hypocritical and indefensible nonsense about why we took Germany's colonies. The deprivation of those colonies inflicted a most regrettable wound to the national consciousness in Germany, but, having said that, he still desired to say categorically

CANADIANS AT HAIG'S TOMB

London, Aug. 1.

A considerable proportion of Canada's Vimy veterans who are now visiting Britain are Scots, and a large party has made the trip to the country of their origin.

On Thursday they took part in an impressive ceremony at Dryburgh Abbey on the Tweed, where Lord Haig has been buried, beside Sir Walter Scott, and where, as Sir Ian Hamilton said, "he enshrined millions of memories of the past, and millions of hopes for the future."

The Scottish sentiment of the Canadian contingent can be gauged by the inscription of the wreath which in Canada's name General Ross placed on Haig's tomb.

It bore the words: "A Borderer first and a Field-marshal afterwards."

At the subsequent luncheon at Melrose Sir Ian Hamilton was in a less poetic mood.

He told the veterans, a story of his inspection of the 48th Highlanders of Toronto in 1939.

The battalion could parade only ten minutes before he was due to dine at the Armoury with the Canadian Division-General and immediately after the dinner he had to catch the train to New York.

He therefore carried out the inspection in full evening dress and an opera hat.

He then had a prohibition dinner with the General with cocktails and whisky served in lemonade bottles. His chauffeur had also been entertained at a prohibition lemonade dinner by the sergeants. Sir Ian made the journey to the station on one wheel.

that in the present circumstances we should not transfer to Germany her former colonies. Even though there were no other difficulties in the way of our doing so, he believed that by giving back those colonies we should not only not buy peace, but should buy additional trouble.

PUREST IRON WORTH MORE THAN GOLD

MADE IN ENGLAND AFTER 5,000 YEARS

Although man has had the use of iron for 5,000 years, "pure" iron has only just been made—by the National Physical Laboratory at Teddington. It is softer than copper, and as valuable as gold. It is also more highly magnetic than is normal iron.

The Teddington iron is believed to be nearly 99.99 per cent. pure. No fewer than 32 different chemical elements, which might be present as impurities, have been tested for, and between them they account for only .0113 per cent.

The laboratory's reason for going to all this trouble to make virtually pure iron is to enable an accurate study to be made of the effects of adding very small amounts of other metals to it. The two last and most vital steps in the Teddington formula for making it are as follows:

First, iron, in powdered form, already as pure as it can otherwise be made, is heated in an atmosphere of hydrogen to drive the last traces of oxygen from it. The heating is done in specially-made vessels of pure alumina, and an electric furnace is used.

Finally, when all the oxygen has been removed, the iron is again heated in a vacuum to remove any hydrogen which it has dissolved during the previous process.

Under laboratory conditions a price of 5s. a gram represents as near an estimate as possible of the cost, in time and trouble, of making pure iron. The present price of gold is about 4s. 10d. a gram.

On the other hand, it is pointed out that if there were ever any serious commercial demand for pure iron, it could be made very much more cheaply. In spite of its extreme initial softness, it can be easily hardened by rolling.

ANTIMONY SUPPLY

China Still Ahead

PRODUCES 20,000 TONS YEARLY

Nanking (By Mail): Boasting of an annual export of approximately 20,000 tons of antimony, Hunan continues to occupy its paramount position as centre of the Chinese supply of the ore to the rest of the world.

Estimated at the current market price of $530 for each ton of antimony regulus, $430 for each ton of crude antimony and $320 for each ton of antimony oxide, the aggregate value of the antimony trade of Hunan would reach a staggering figure of $10,000,000.

Latest investigation reveals that the annual world industrial consumption of antimony is 24,000 tons while the world production of the ore is roughly 25,000 tons. Of this, China shares approximately 70 per cent of the world's output. Hunan, in return, occupies 90 per cent of China's total annual production of antimony.

FOREIGN EXPORTS

Hunan's annual antimony export to the United States is between five and six thousand tons; to England, between four and five thousand; to Germany, more than three thousand; and five thousand tons each to such countries as Japan, France, Holland, and Sweden. Antimony regulus covers nine-tenths of the total export, the remaining being crude and oxide.

Besides being used in the manufacture of gunpowder, almost 89 per cent of the antimony is used in other industries. But uniting with certain chemicals in forming compounds, the metal is employed mostly in making type metal because it expands upon solidification, makes good castings, and also adds hardness.

It is also employed in the preparation of battery plates, in the vulcanizing of special rubber, and in paints and explosives. In the making of pumps and pipes, the manufacture of domestic utensils, and even in the making of toys, it is widely used. Furthermore, it unites directly with the halogens; it is sometimes a constituent of pewter (any of the alloys with tin as the principal constituent); and its chief commercial source of the element is stibnite, a sulphur compound known since very early times.

THE SUDDEN INCREASE

History reveals that neither crude antimony nor antimony regulus was exported in 1901. Only 11 piculs of sulphide ore, at a cost of Tls. 25, were shipped from the country. The output suddenly increased to more than 30,000 piculs the following year, which was valued at more than Tls. 60,000.

In 1904, when merchants began to know how to melt the sulphide ore into crude antimony (pure sulphide) and further into antimony regulus, 60,000 piculs of antimony regulus, valued at Tls. 20,000, were exported.

There are at present 48 melting factories which have registered with the reconstruction department of the province.

Government control was proclaimed in February, 1933, when an antimony trade administration was formed. It has the right to sell the product, regulate the price, and examine the output.

SPECULATIVE TRADE

The trade is a speculative one. The price fluctuation per ton is between $70 to $800.

Haihuangshan, in Singhua district, is the center of antimony production in Central Hunan. The place gets its name "Haihuang" (meaning tin ore) because local villages first mistook antimony as tin. Originally a small village, it has now been developed into a large mining town with thirty or more melting factories. More than 100,000 people are living directly or indirectly at Haihuangshan alone. The finished product is shipped to Changsha by junk, from where the antimony is stored and later exported.

Liverpool Scottish Lay Up Colour

DUKE OF ATHOLL TAKES CUSTODY

With impressive ceremonial the King's colour of the 2nd (Liverpool Scottish) Battalion the King's Regiment was laid up in the Scottish National War Memorial recently.

With the exception of the occasion when the one-time Tyneside Scottish battalion of the Northumberland Fusiliers took part in a similar ceremony some years ago, this is the only other on which a battalion of other than Scottish origin has taken part in such a ceremony.

Brilliant sunshine favoured the half-hour of ceremonial which accompanied the laying-up of the colour, and holidaymakers touring the Castle thronged the Crown Square, where the 10th Battalion of the Liverpool Scottish, at present in camp at Dregthorn had been drawn up.

TROOPED ROUND BATTALION

The Duke of Atholl who is honorary colonel of the battalion, stood on the steps of the Memorial, while the colour and escort took up position inside the square.

After the prayer and the singing of "O God of Bethel," the battalion commanding officer asked the Duke formally to take custody of the colour.

To the strains of a slow march played by the pipe band, the colour was trooped round the battalion, and as the command "Present arms" rang out the colour was carried into the Shrine by a subaltern. Here it was placed in front of the casket while the chaplain offered a short prayer.

CHORISTERS TAKE PART

After a wreath had been placed on the Memorial by the Regimental Quarter-Master Sergeant, the mauve-robed choristers from St. Giles, who took part in the ceremony, sang "Scots Wha Hae." The ceremony concluded with the singing of Kipling's "Recessional," and as the battalion marched from the Crown Square the Duke of Atholl, standing on the Memorial steps, took the salute.

PROMOTION BY MERIT IN THE NAVY

The spirit of Lord Fisher still lives in the Admiralty. Lord Fisher's fetish (outside speed's being superior to armour-plating) was promotion by merit rather than by seniority. A commander in the navy, who in the matter of seniority was half-way down the list of his contemporaries, has been promoted to the rank of captain. By his selection to this rank he passes over the heads of over 200 other commanders and is established at the age of thirty-seven years as the youngest post-captain in the navy. This fortunate officer is Captain R. C. O'Connor, and his fortune is that outstanding merit is (as Lord Fisher wished it should be) the pathway to promotion.

It will be remembered that when he reached the rank of captain the late Lord Beatty was the youngest of his period. Captain O'Connor was a cadet at Dartmouth on August 4, 1914, and was first rated as a midshipman in October of the same year.

M. LEON BLUM'S GOOD WORK

GREAT BRITAIN'S BACKING

London, Aug. 24.

To-day's developments in the negotiations for a non-intervention agreement have given much gratification in authoritative British circles where there is evident optimism that wider dangers inherent in the situation arising from the Spanish conflict will now be obviated. Warm tributes are paid to the patient and farseeing statesmanship shown throughout the long and difficult negotiations by the French Prime Minister, Leon Blum. No secret has been made by the French Government of the valuable and timely support which Blum's initiative has had throughout from the British Government. On several occasions the British have seconded the French representations in their capitals when such assistance was desired and Britain's unilateral and unconditional assumption last Wednesday of the obligations provided for in the French plan did much to strengthen confidence in an ultimate general agreement.

THE EMBARGO QUESTION

MORE COUNTRIES FOLLOW SUIT

London, Aug. 24.

The news announced in Berlin to-day that Germany had prohibited the export of war materials to Spain in accordance with the proposals of the French Government was received in London with great satisfaction. The fact that the decision was made although discussions with the Madrid Government over the release of the interned German aeroplane have not yet been concluded has made a good impression. The embargo is now in force in Britain, France, and Germany and it is presumed that Russia, Italy and Portugal which have already expressed their readiness to impose one simultaneously with other principal interested powers will take steps to bring it into operation immediately they have been officially notified. In view of the importance of the time factor it is unlikely there will be any delay on the part of the French Government with whom the matter rests in making this notification in Moscow, Rome and Lisbon.

CHINESE ART

Exhibition In New Zealand

LOANS FROM BRITISH COLLECTORS

Some 320 examples of Chinese art, porcelain, pottery, bronzes, jades, and other pieces, has been recently shipped to New Zealand for exhibition at the Auckland War Memorial Museum.

There have been similar exhibitions at the same museum, but through the enthusiasm and enterprise of the organizer, Captain Humphreys-Davies, and the generosity of a large body of British collectors, the present exhibition, which will open in December, should prove to be the most important display of Oriental art ever held in the Antipodes.

Among the collectors who have generously lent some of the finest pieces from their collection are Mr. George Eumorfopoulos, Mr. F. Schiller, Mr. Arthur Whittall, Dr. Lindley Scott, Mr. Martin Hurst, Mr. Victor Rinaecker, Lady Patricia Ramsay, and Lord Bledisloe.

ANCIENT BRONZE

Mr. Rutherford and Mrs. Powell have contributed about 80 pieces from the Charles Rutherford collection, a collection singularly rich in small objects of ancient bronze. Nearly 100 objects have come from Mr. C. T. Loo, of Paris; while Messrs. John Sparks, of Mount Street, have also lent several objects to fill gaps of types not adequately represented.

Mention, too, must be made of a group of collectors at Manchester, including Mr. C. J. Aron and Mr. O. Hughes Jones, who have among them contributed over a dozen objects that have figured in the instructive exhibitions that they have arranged at Manchester and elsewhere.

The organizer has also received great assistance in his labours from Professor W. Percival Yetts, Director of the Courtauld Institute, Sir Eric MacLagan, Director of the Victoria and Albert Museum, Mr. Oscar Raphael, wno, in addition to lending some early bronzes and "Tang" jewelry, had given a "Ying Ching" bowl; Mr. H. L. Parr, Curator of Ceramics at the Fitzwilliam Museum; the Director of the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford; and M. Grosset, of the Cernuschi Museum, Paris.

A VERY RARE VASE

Among the pieces contributed by Mr. George Eumorfopoulos, special mention must be made of a Sung bulb bowl or flower pot with the inscription on the base erased. It is supposed that this was an Imperial Palace mark, erased when the piece was stolen. From the same source comes a fifteenth century baluster vase with the Sanskrit inscription, "Om mani padme hum" ("Oh! the jewel in the lotus") in Tibetan characters, a piece of extreme rarity.

Mr. Victor Rinaecker's contributions include 10 lent and one donated specimens chiefly of early wares and jades from his too little-known collection. Lord Bledisloe has lent two unique Wan Li dished jars. Some Ming-jades come from the collection of Lady Patricia Ramsay, while Mr. Arthur Whittall, in addition to lending some of his finest pieces of "famille verte," has from his position at Lloyd's been able to obtain a nominal rate of insurance.

Owing to lack of time it has not been possible to approach many other collectors, but it is hoped that such will be able to send in objects to Messrs. Sparks, 128, Mount Street, who will undertake to pack and forward them to New Zealand and arrange the insurances.

EARLY PAINTING WANTED

Captain Humphreys-Davies will be especially grateful for a few examples of early paintings and small objects of lacquer and jewelry and copies of authoritative works on various phases of Chinese art to reinforce the Auckland Museum Library.

The Auckland Museum is fortunate in having already a considerable number of Chinese ceramics and bronzes, and it is hoped to make it a centre for the study of Chinese culture as it already is of Polynesian anthropology.

This will be the fourth display of Chinese art held at the Auckland Museum, the first, consisting mainly of Chinese porcelain of the Ming and T'ang dynasties, being held in 1932.

COLMAN RE-JOINS THE LEGION

Ronald Colman made his first great hit in Beau Geste—just ten years ago. Now, at the height of his talkie career, he returns to the Foreign Legion to play the part of Sergeant Victor, the exiled English gentleman, hero of Ouida's "Under Two Flags." With him in this story of adventure, campaigning and romance in the desert are Claudette Colbert and Victor McLaglen. The former deserts comedy to play the part of the emotional little café-girl, Cigarette, who loves Victor un-

FATAL LADY

An opera singer with whom it is certain death to fall in love is the character portrayed by Mary Ellis in "Fatal Lady." Walter Wanger's production for Paramount is showing at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

In the course of the story of "Fatal Lady" death strikes each of the men who fall in love with the beautiful Metropolitan Opera star. Innocent of any part in the crimes, as puzzled as the authorities, she is forced to flee from country to country.

A Young American falls desperately in love with her when he finds her singing in a Paris Apache dive. In an attempt on his life, the real culprit is captured. Encouraged by her new love she again reaches the heights of operatic success.

Walter Pidgeon, star of the stage and screen, is seen in the leading romantic role opposite the star, John Halliday. Alan Mowbray, Ruth Donnelly, Guy Bates Post, Norman Foster and Irene Franklin are in the supporting cast.

ABSOLUTE QUIET

"Absolute Quiet" M. G. M.'s dramatic picture opens to-day at the Alhambra Theatre.

The story concerns the lives of ten people, all enemies, two escaped killers, a screen star, a Broadway actress, a newspaper man, the governor of a state and his assistant, a wife who has been taken from her husband, a lawyer—and last but not least, their host, a ruthless financier who has gone to his ranch to save his health by getting absolute quiet.

The facts that all of his guests are his enemies adds to the dramatic situation.

All of the players are excellent in their roles. They include Lionel Atwill, Irene Hervey, Raymond Walburn, Stuart Erwin, Ann Loring, Louis Hayward, Wallace Ford, Bernadette Hayes, Robert Gleckler and Harvey Stephens.

George Seltz directed the John W. Considine, Jr. production which was brought to the screen by Harry Clork from a novel by George F. Worts.

avallingly and McLaglen appears as the hard-bitten Major Doyle, whose unrequited love for Cigarette causes him to try to send Victor to his death. The story, which has a thrilling spectacular climax showing an Arab rising and the relief of trapped Legionaries by cavalry, has twice been filmed as a silent picture.

BROADWAY MELODY OF 1936

Enchanting music, spectacular dance routines set in backgrounds of unprecedented splendour, a pageant of the world's greatest entertainers headed by Jack Benny, and in intriguing story all combine to make "Broadway Melody of 1936," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's most ambitious musical extravaganza, the screen's outstanding eye and ear entertainment of the year.

The picture is showing to-day at the Star Theatre for one day only. Jack Benny, recently declared the most popular of all radio stars, repeats his success on the screen as the smart Broadway columnist, Sid Silvers, "king of the stooges," gets many a laugh with his droll humour. Other new screen personalities who definitely score in this elaborate musical are Eleanor Powell, for the past five years acclaimed as "the world's greatest tap dancer," who plays the lead opposite Robert Taylor. The latter does his best screen work to date.

Una Merkel, as a wise-cracking secretary; June Knight, as a spoiled darling of New York society; Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, famous comedians and dancers; Nick Long, Jr., noted acrobatic dancer; Frances Langford, radio's song bird and Harry Stockwell, concert baritone, all deserve the highest praise for their amazing entertainment talents.

"ECSTASY"

There is certain to be wide divergence of opinion regarding the merits of "Ecstasy," opening to-day at the King's Theatre. It is an oddity in the present-day run of films and as such is interesting. The fact that it is practically a silent picture and moves at a lethargic pace which at times seems to come almost to a complete halt is likely to win the disapproval of some. Beautiful photography and extremely skillful conveyance of ideas by inference will be admired by others. The synopsis of the story is short and simple, for there is almost as little action as speech. A beautiful young lady marries a stuffy old man who falls asleep in the bathroom on their wedding night. She returns to her horse-breeding father, from whom she gains little sympathy. While swimming in a lake, her horse runs away and is recovered by a virile young man with whom she becomes acquainted, thanks to an injured ankle. That night she goes to his house. Her husband learns of the affair and commits suicide. The doors are opened to a gay and satisfying life for the young lovers.

Rival To Freddie?

A new picture, Let's Sing Again, brings a new boy actor. His name is Bobby Breen.

Master Breen is a discovery of Eddie Cantor, who introduced him to America in his radio programmes. "Hollywood, which has already seen the picture, is proclaiming eight-year-old Bobby as a second Freddie Bartholomew. He not only acts, but sings as well. Maybe he is a second Bartholomew. Maybe he's just another of those child discoveries who pop up in "one picture" and are never heard of again.

MERCHANDISING FEAR

Growing Severity Of Censorship In Britain

By Advice of its British agency, a Hollywood studio which has been active in the making of horror films is reported as excluding all shockers from its next year's production plans.

It is explained that a growing severity of censorship in Great Britain threatens to make unmarketable there films filled with situations based upon fear. That an American producing company should take advice from its British distributors indicates that the returns from English-speaking countries outside the United States represent a considerable margin of profit. Canadian and Australian authorities of late have proved increasingly stern when these shockers have been submitted for approval.

There are people who urge that censorship of gooselike films indicates a needless concern for the sensibilities of the spectators—that they should enjoy these tales of vampires, ghosts, ghouls, werewolves and weird doings in laboratories as entertaining mysteries, nothing more than photographed trickeries. Unhappily it appears that for many adults and most children scenes of terror on the screen have undesirable consequences.

Parents who have observed the bad effects on their children of films filled with representations of terror, torture and slaughter need no specialist's analysis to convince them that sharp limitations should be placed upon the merchandising of fear. They will be glad to hear of the restraint on the makers of horror films, even if it has to be exerted by such remote control as a British market warning to Hollywood. A hint of this suffices to achieve a reform when the penalty for nonobservance is loss of profits.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

As from August 30, the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon, will be under new management. The manager was formerly connected with another well-known theatre on the mainland.

Interior re-decoration of the Majestic has already been put in hand and new seats have been fitted.

There is also to be a revision in prices of admission which should prove popular to Kowloon film-goers.

At the 2.30 and 5.20 p.m. shows the price of admission to all stalls will be 20 cents and 30 cents for the dress circle.

For the 7.20 and 9.20 p.m. performances the prices will be: lodge seats 70 cents, dress circle 50 cents, back stalls 30 cents and front stalls 20 cents.

Service men will be admitted to the dress circle for 30 cents whether in uniform or in civilian dress on production of their identification cards.

The new prices will come into effect as from August 30 with the screening of M. G. M.'s film, "Petitcoat Fever" starring Robert Montgomery and Myrna Loy with Reginald Owen and Winifred Shotter.

"THE GORGEOUS HUSSY"

Joan Crawford, has gone into curls and crinolines—and how well they suit her! The occasion is M.G.M.'s production of "The Gorgeous Hussy," the story of how a nineteenth-century innkeeper's daughter rose to be one of the most influential women in the United States.

Clarence Brown is directing "The Gorgeous Hussy," with Robert Taylor, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Melvyn Douglas, Beulah Bondi and Joan's real-life husband, Franchot Tone in the cast.

NEWS FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

IRENE DUNNE'S NEW STELLAR ROLE

Irene Dunne, star of "Show-boat," "Roberta," "Sweet Adeline" and "Magnificent Obsession," and one of the stage and screen's most popular leading women, recently placed under contract by Columbia, returned recently from Europe on the S. S. Normandie. Miss Dunne, who sailed last month has been spending a brief vacation abroad.

She will entrain for Hollywood shortly to take up her contract with Columbia which calls for her to appear in the stellar role of Mary McCarthy's story "Theodora Goes Wild." Sidney Buchman, who wrote the adaptation of Columbia's Grace Moore musical production, "The King Steps Out" is now working on the screenplay.

DIRECTOR ACTS

Having been unsuccessful in his search for a character to take the part of the late Colonel Teddy Roosevelt, leader of the Rough Riders in Columbia's "The Road To Nowhere" (tentative title) Erle Kenton who is directing the picture has decided to play the role himself.

Jack Holt, Douglas Dumbrille and Louise Henry are featured in this stirring drama.

Coming of a theatrical family, Erle Kenton, veteran of the cinema, before starting his career as one of the screen's most prominent directors, was a straight and comedy actor.

COLUMBIA CASTINGS IN "CRAIG'S WIFE"

Dorothy Wilson and Raymond Walburn have been added to the cast for "Craig's Wife," the George Kelly Pulitzer Prize-winning play in which John Boles and Rosalind Russell have the leads.

Other already signed for this important Columbia production, which is being directed by Dorothy Arzner are Thomas Mitchell, Billie Burke, Nydia Westman, Elisabeth Risdon and Robert Allen.

"ADVENTURE IN MANHATTAN"

Herman Bing and Victor Kilian, Columbia contract players, were assigned to the cast for "Adventure in Manhattan" starring Jean Arthur, with Joel McCrea as the male lead. The featured players to date include Charles Wilson, Henry Mollison, George Cooper and Romayne Callender. Edward Ludwig is directing from Jack Kirkland's screenplay of May Edginton's story.

Mr. Bing's outstanding comedy performance in the Grace Moore starring picture "The King Steps Out" was directly responsible for his being placed under Columbia's banner for an extended term. He established his reputation as a comedian many years ago and has had a long and successful career in picture. Some of his latest films are "Thunder in the Night," "Fighting Youth," "Red-heads on Parade," "His Family Tree," "Three Kids and a Queen," "Hands Across the Table" and "A Minute."

GUINN WILLIAMS

Guinn (Big Boy) Williams, recently was engaged for the featured role of "Bob Hildreth" in "The Road to Nowhere" (tentative title). Jack Holt's first picture under his new contract, with Columbia, Louise Henry will appear opposite the star. Douglas Dumbrille and John McGuire have already been assigned parts. Production has started under the direction of Erle C. Kenton.

DEATH PROBE INTO FATAL FALL Drunken Scene Enacted By Shopman

CONTINUE

The inquest into the death of Teng Beng Oei, who was found dead at the bottom of a cliff on July 7, opposite the Blind Home, at Pokfulam, was resumed yesterday afternoon at the Central Magistracy before Mr. W. Schofield.

Much more evidence is to come before His Worship, so the hearing was adjourned until September 18, at 2.30 p.m.

Chief of the evidence of the afternoon was given by To Kee, the chauffeur of Teng's car, number 746.

On the fateful day, he drove his master accompanied by an European to the Hotel Cecil. He could not say if any drinking had been done, as he did not enter the building.

About 6 p.m. he drove the party, with the addition of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chan to Aberdeen. Two other cars followed him to the Sun Fa Choi Restaurant, where the party had dinner.

At 10 p.m. he noticed an altercation between Chan and the deceased in front of the cafe. The deceased continued running up the street when he was dragged back to the car by two of the party.

He noticed scuffling in the rear of the car, and after an interval, the European climbed over into the front with him.

ORDER TO STOP
Nearing the Blind Home, at Pokfulam, someone shouted to him to stop the car. On doing so, Teng jumped out, and started running towards Hong Kong, and a taxi coming from that direction, was hailed by him.

He was not allowed to get into the taxi, and eluding their grasp, he ran hurriedly off into the darkness.

Witness lost sight of him after he had run sixty feet, and then it was that he heard a thud, as of a body falling.

Mr. Peter H. Sin, who appeared on behalf of the parents of the deceased, questioned the witness: "Was deceased hurt in the fight at Aberdeen?" "I didn't notice then, but when he got out of the car, his nose was bleeding."

Before the car stopped at Pokfulam Road, did you hear a noise in the rear of the car?—Yes.

Were there any exchange of blows?—It seemed like an exchange of blows.

Did the deceased make any sound?—I heard cries of pain.

When he got out of the car, did it occur to you that he wanted to leave the car altogether?—He kept running as if he was in a hurry.

Did the deceased want to take the taxi to return to Hong Kong?—Yes.

The jury had only one question to put to the witness:

Who asked you to stop the car at the Blind Home?—It was an unrecognisable voice.

STAGGERED INTO SHOP
Sergeant T. G. McKay produced some photographs taken at the scene during the night of the fatal accident.

The waiter of the Sun Fa Choi Restaurant, Hon Kai, gave evidence as to the amount of hard liquor drunk on that evening: three small bottles of Hennessy's brandy, and six large bottles of beer.

Attending to his own duties, he noticed nothing at all out of the ordinary during the party.

The manager of the Tai Sang Tong Medicine Store, Kam Lam, of 77, Main Street, Aberdeen, deposed that about 9.45 p.m. on July 7, a Chinese in European clothes came to the front of his shop, staggered in front of the counter, and swept off eight bottles he had on display on the floor. Seven of them broke.

Kam Lam showed His Worship how the accident occurred by demonstrating before the Court the act of staggering and slipping, and the sweeping of the bottles on the floor, much to the amusement of those present.

Questioning him, Mr. Sin asked: "Did the man fall on the ground?" His Worship interposed by informing Mr. Sin that the witness had deposed that the man had staggered, which was different from falling.

"Did he kick against anything as he fell?—No.

The proprietor of the Trocadero Hotel, F. A. Lowe, next deposed that he was invited to the party on that night, where they all proceeded to Aberdeen.

He corroborated the waiter's evidence as to the number of bottles

A FREE MAN MANSLAUGHTER CASE ENDS BROTHERS DISCHARGED

"The jury have found you 'not guilty' on the charge brought against you. You may go."

With these words Yung Shing, 33, blacksmith was released from the prisoner's box at the Criminal Sessions yesterday, and walked into the sunlight, a free man. He displayed no emotion but walked quietly from the courtroom that had seen him for three days, a guarded prisoner making four trips daily from the Victoria Gaol, to battle for his freedom.

Yung faced a charge of manslaughter of Ip Kin, 49-year-old gardener who met his death as a result of an attack alleged to have been made by Yung and his younger brother Yung Min, 24, gardener, at a hut in Hau Pul Loong, Hung Hom.

The jury comprising Messrs. N. Mathieson (foreman) Jackson Chu, Lee Wal-cheong, H. Rucker, J. B. Emmert, Ng Pak-king and I. S. Castro, retired for a brief, ten minutes before they brought in an unanimous verdict.

The Chief Justice, Sir Athol MacGregor, addressing the jury for an hour and five minutes, gave a comprehensive survey from all aspects. He stated that the Crown's case, when stripped of its many discrepancies and contradictions was that Ip Kin (deceased), his wife and family, went unarmoured into accused's brother's hut (No. 3) to thrash out a quarrel apparently over a 10 cent loan.

One witness had said that deceased's intention was to "arrest" Yung Ming and hand him over to the police. Ip attempted to snatch a knife from accused and was chopped on the right elbow joint, severing an artery.

If this was actually what had happened on that fateful night, a great burst of blood would issue from the wound. The door (which was exhibited in Court) bore traces of blood and it thus appeared that Ip fell near the door. Inspector Elston was in fact able to trace the wounded man to hut No. 4.

The trial, as in so many others of this nature, was a case of word against word. If the jury believed defendant's story, then the manslaughter was justifiable as the blow was struck in self defence.

Earlier yesterday morning, Yung Ming, the younger brother was discharged owing to lack of evidence, this being further confirmed with a formal verdict of "not guilty" returned in the afternoon by the jury.

At the conclusion of the trial, His Lordship addressing Mr. N. Mathieson thanked the jury for their care and attention in a trial that had lasted more than two full days, and exempted them from further jury service for a period of twelve months.

Mr. E. H. Williams, the Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the prosecution. The defendants were not represented by counsel.

DEFENDANT'S VERSION
Speaking in an easy manner and full of confidence, Yung Shing, occupied the witness box yesterday morning. He stated that of liquor consumed, and stated the number of those present.

STOLE FROM A SLEEPING MAN MONEY IN MOUTH

It was fortunate for Tam Wan when he was punched on the mouth by Ng Yuen Sam, that the coins which he had stolen and concealed in his mouth, fell out of the front, as they did, and did not slide backwards down his throat. He was charged before Mr. E. Hims-worth at the Kowloon Court yesterday with the theft of $1.14 from Ng Yuen Sam.

Det. Sergt. R. R. Ellis prosecuted and stated that the complainant had fallen asleep on a vacant piece of ground near the Kowloon Motor Bus Company. While asleep the defendant came and sat down by his side and stealthily took the money from the girdle. Complainant awoke and discovered the loss of the coins. A witness to the theft informed complainant of what had happened and complainant punched the defendant in the mouth. Thirty six cents fell out. The rest was concealed in his girdle.

Defendant was fined $5 or two weeks.

following threats on the life of his younger brother, he became frightened and bolted the door of his brother's hut. Yung Wing, their elder brother, repeated the threats, saying "I must have you tonight." Witness knew this man was fierce because he "was a robber, imprisoned for one year and then banished for 10 years." "I was afraid of him," said witness.

In spite of his attempts to prevent an entry, the bolted door was smashed in. "I and my younger brother ran to the rear of the premises."

"Ip Kin chased us in and caught my brother. He knocked him down by the stone steps of the kitchen."

Following a brief struggle, witness stated that he managed to make Ip release his brother. "I succeeded in pushing him out of the kitchen. It was dark and a lot of people came in. They cut at random thinking I was lying on the floor, whereas it was Ip. I was hurt about the left arm and fingers. I then heard Ip Siu Yuen call out (I recognised his voice): 'We have cut him, we have cut him.' They rejoiced because they thought they had cut me.

"My brother and I each armed ourselves with poles fearing a recurrence of the attack. Later a police whistle was blown by someone. We remained in the hut for about 20 minutes before the arrival of the police. When they made an appearance we walked straight out. Until then I was afraid to leave the hut."

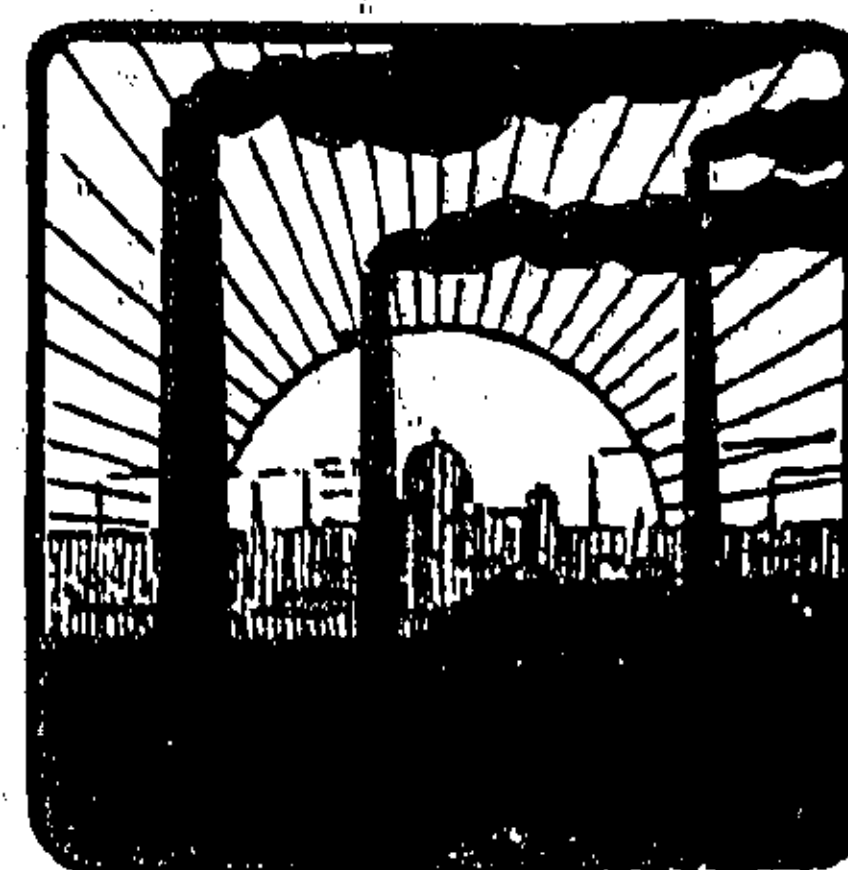

Mr. Williams (cross-examining): You deny then that you were the person that struck Ip Kin?—I deny it.

Do you agree that the knife belongs to your brother?—It belongs to Ip Siu Yuen. He bought it from our blacksmith's shop.

Is it true that the widow came to your hut about 3 p.m. to ask for the return of 20 or 30 cents?—I owed Ip ten cents, and I paid it to him at 7 p.m.

Lam Chun, a foki of the accused, and the wife of second defendant then gave evidence following which the case for the defence closed.

SIMILARITY IN DOGS

Confusion arising from the similarity between two dogs resulted in a summons being taken out against Mr. T. S. Clark, a Sanitary Inspector living at No. 4, Cox's Path. The case was heard before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

It appears that B489 saw this dog on August 3 wandering about the streets without a muzzle. He again saw the dog or at least one similar, at No. 3 Cox's Path.

Inspector Clark stated that there must have been some confusion. Mrs. Clark had also seen this other dog and on one occasion had actually mistaken it for their own dog.

The summons was dismissed.

WOLFRAM ORE

Tang Wan, aged 34, appeared before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Court yesterday charged with the possession of 34 pounds of wolfram ore, valued at $20. Defendant was arrested in Nam Cheung Street near Fuk Wah Street.

Inspector Chester Woods prosecuted. Defendant was fined $10 or three weeks. The ore was confiscated.

ALL OVER TWELVE CENTS

Quarrelling over a mah jong debt of 12 cents and an ultimate fight in which the Tai Chu was injured, resulted in Tang Kan, aged 21, being brought before Mr. E. Hims-worth at the Kowloon Court yesterday charged with the assault which occurred at N. 4, Taku Street on August 17.

The case was remanded at the previous hearing because of the complainant's inability to attend Court. He had been hurt in the groin, necessitating a stay in the Hospital.

Defendant was bound over in $20.

STOWAWAY SENTENCED

When the Dollar liner, President Cleveland arrived in the Colony on Monday, Vicente Isada, 30, a Filipino, was handed over to the local police authorities having been found as a stowaway on board shortly after she left Manila, bound for this port.

Isada pleaded "Guilty" to the charge, and in view of the frequency of this offence, Det. Sergt. Laughlin asked His Worship, Mr. S. F. Balfour, to impose a prison sentence.

The defendant was sentenced to three weeks.

BETWEEN DEVIL AND DEEP SEA

Amusement was caused at the Supreme Court yesterday. Yung Shing, a young blacksmith on trial for a manslaughter charge, denied the veracity of a Crown witness's evidence.

Li Po, a sub-tenant had stated that she saw accused's younger brother quarrel with deceased's wife.

"This is not true" said the man in the box.

"There is flesh on both sides of the palm. If either side is placed on something hot, it is bound to get scorched. She is on equal terms with both parties. If she gives evidence for one it will be against the other."

"She is between the devil and the deep sea" remarked His Lordship, amid laughter.

SNATCHER REMANDED

Lam Sing Koon, 25, a bag snatcher was remanded in police custody for further inquiries into his relatives or friends in the Colony.

He was charged with the theft of a gold watch from Stall 226, at the Central Market, at 9.15 a.m. on Monday morning.

On his arrest, he said that he was employed on the Chinese cruiser, "Ying Sui," but, on being taken on board, it was found that he was unknown.

BANISHEE ARRESTED

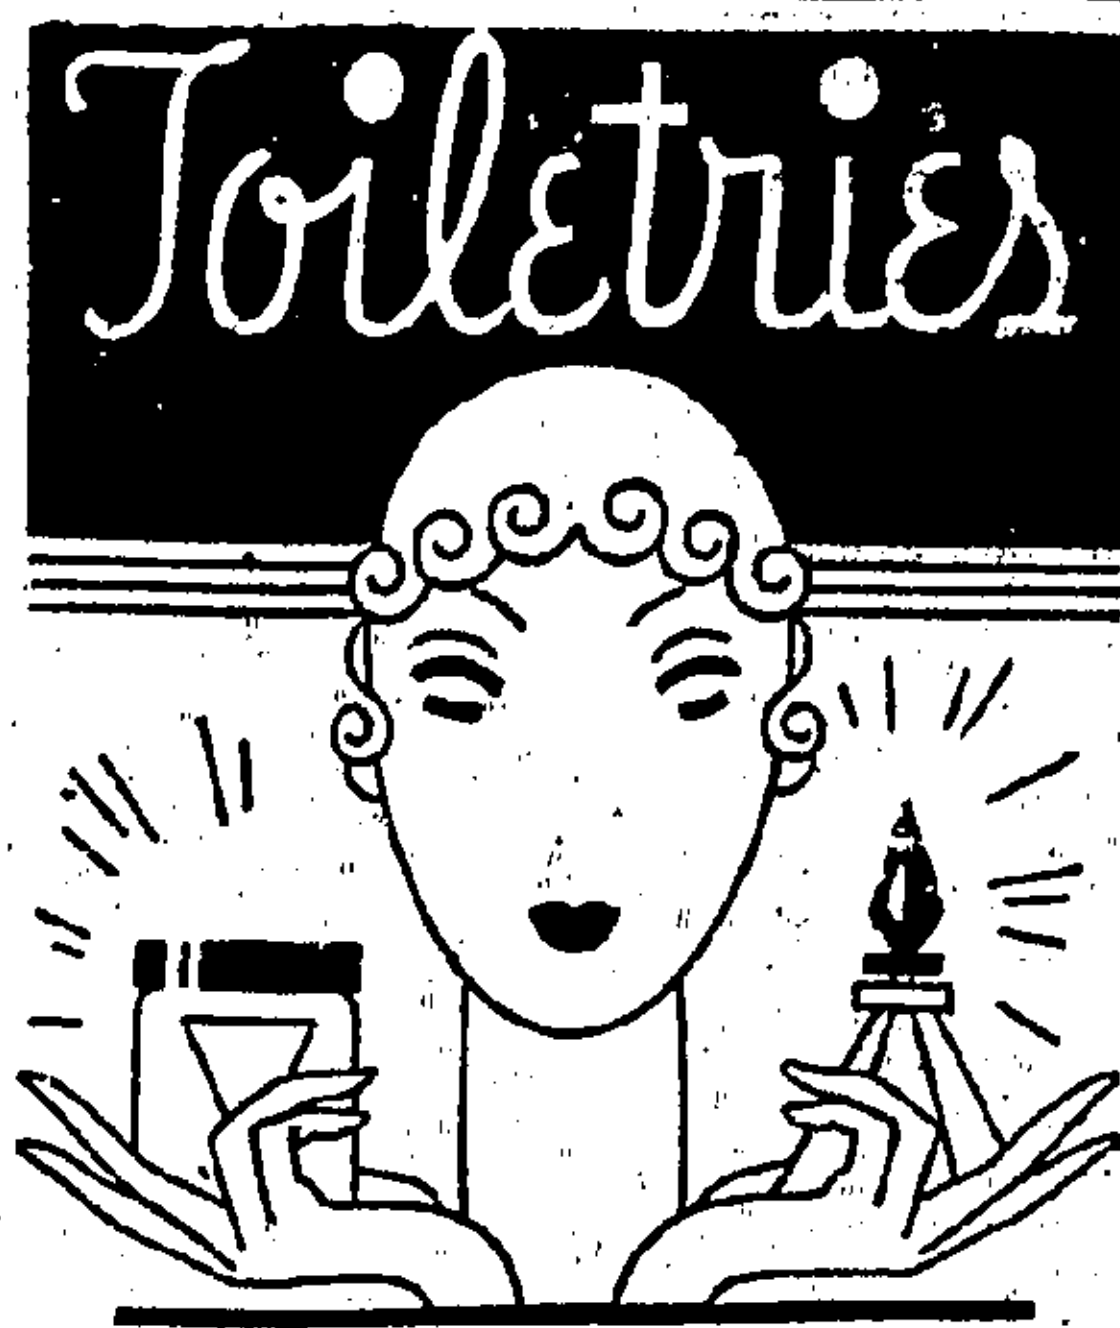

Li Tak, 65, of the Wai Chau district, was in discomforting circumstances on Monday when he was arrested on information received by the police authorities.

A returned banishee, the defendant had previously been convicted on six charges.

He informed His Worship, Mr. W. Schofield, that he had only returned to the Colony the night before his arrest. He was visiting some friends at Tai Hang, and the night, being too far advanced, remained with them.

During the hearing, it was proved that the defendant's last two convictions had been against him after his banishment. His fingers were not in a fit shape for fingerprinting, and it was with difficulty that they were traced.

He was sentenced to 10 months with hard labour.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS DEFENDED

"IS LIKE A SECULAR BIBLE"

YESTERDAY'S ROTARY ADDRESS

Speaking at the weekly tiffin of the Hong Kong Rotary Club held at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden yesterday afternoon, Mr. G. W. Sewell, agent in South China for the Federation of British Industries, said that the League of Nations had been seriously criticised because it had on occasions taken no effective action but it should not be forgotten that disputes were continually being brought before the League and amicably settled. Too much was heard of the League's failures; too little of its successes.

The speaker also stated that a good many unkind things had been said about Great Britain's connection with the League.

Mr. W. N. Thomas Tam, (President) was in the chair and welcomed a new member in Rotarian W. H. Lebert, of the Java China Japan Lijn.

Guests introduced included Col. H. C. Harrison, of Command Headquarters, Dr. D. Hope Gill, Dr. J. A. R. Selby, Messrs. E.P.K. Ho Tung (Shanghai), A.W. Ingram, J. Parks, W.E. Grimm, Jun., and George She.

Introducing the speaker of the day, Mr. Tam said that Mr. Sewell was the agent in South China for the Federation of British Industries.

THE ADDRESS

Mr. Sewell said:—Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:—I very much appreciate the honour of being asked to address you to-day especially as my subject is neither personal or in any way connected with advertising. (Laughter.) If, however, I can sell you the idea behind the League of Nations I feel I shall have earned the excellent tiffin with which you have so kindly provided me. I may mention that I have not given way to any gastronomic inhibitions such as afflicted a clergyman lunching with his host before the "afternoon service. He ate little explaining that it was not good for a preacher to eat heavily before a meal. The hostess could not attend the service as she had to stay at home to prepare tea. When her husband returned she asked him, "Well how was he?" The husband heaved a sigh replying, "He might just as well have eaten." (Laughter.)

After the War when hates and passions were flaming hot the necessity for some sort of measure to prevent further outbreaks of hostilities was apparent and the result was the League of Nations which came into force in January 1920.

It was like an angel born in a brothel as it was conceived at a time of great unrest amongst the peoples of the Nations involved in the war. Some such steady influence was essential to keep the world sane so that a new structure could be built on civilised grounds.

The constitution of the League is like a secular Bible as it is closely akin to Christianity in its objects. The League deals with a variety of questions such as slavery, drug traffic, child welfare and a host of other matters where conditions permit of improvement. Not the least of its good works is the care of refugees, the homeless and the homeless of all Nations. There are 58 nations in the League. Its members agree not to go to war before submission of disputes to arbitration, to judicial settlement, or to the mediation of the Council or Assembly. They agree in no case to resort to war until three months after award, decision, or report by the Council. When cases are submitted to arbitration or judicial settlement, the States agree to carry out the awards in full good faith. If any dispute likely to lead to rupture is not submitted to arbitration or judicial settlement, it must be submitted to the Council, whose first duty is to endeavour to effect a settlement. If it fails to do so, it issues a report either unanimously (not counting the votes of the parties) or by majority vote giving what it considers to be appropriate terms of settlement. If its decision is unanimous, any State going to war in defiance of the decision commits an act of war against all the Members of the League, which undertake in such circumstances to break off relations with the offending State and to subject it to blockade.

It is the duty of the Council in such cases to recommend to the several governments concerned what armed forces shall be contributed for the protection of the Covenant. If the decision is not unanimous, the Members of the League "reserve to themselves the right to take such action as they shall consider necessary for the maintenance of right and justice."

SERIOUSLY CRITICISED

The League has been seriously criticised because it has on occasions taken no effective action but it should not be forgotten that disputes are continually being brought before the League and amicably settled. Too much is heard of the League's failures; too little of its successes.

The majority of cases dealt with by the League are in a sense legacies of the war. The Aaland Islands question, the Polish-Lithuanian dispute, the delimitation of the Iraq frontier (better known as the Mosul question) were consequences of the territorial and political changes that took place as the outcome of the war. Similar changes due to the same cause raised, or revived, in Europe the Albanian question and that of raids by armed bands on the territories of the States bordering upon Bulgaria; the question of the treatment by the Greeks of the Bulgarians in Western Thrace, and that of the Moslems of Albanian race in Greece; the question of the Greeks settled in Constantinople.

The Upper-Silesian question, that of the "Hungarian optants," and the various questions connected with the delimitation of frontiers in Central Europe (Hungary's frontiers with Austria, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia; the frontier between Poland and Czechoslovakia; the frontier between Greece and Turkey) were primarily due to differences of interpretation in the application of the treaties.

THREAT TO PEACE

These questions differed in importance. Some of them seemed at one time to represent a serious threat to peace. Others affected local or national interests of considerable importance. All of them, before they were submitted to the League, had given rise to lively discussions, and some had aroused such strong feeling that between the countries directly concerned definite tension was created influencing considerably their home and foreign policies.

It may be true that the League has so far had only minor successes but moral culture must begin with a way of thinking and with the foundation of a character that takes time especially when its application is international.

WAR EXPENDITURE

Attempts are made from time to time to limit war expenditure and we hear a great deal about "the balance of power." But how can it be told when two nations are equal in power? In the Washington conference it was a question of comparing the respective power of cruisers with 8 in. and 6 in. guns, and it was decided that in bad weather the 8 in. gun had it because it could manoeuvre more quickly. The United States said that therefore 6 in. cruisers were more valuable on the British side because of our liability to foggy weather. The question then arose of how many 6 in. cruisers went to how much fog, and the discussion remained unsettled. (Laughter.) That is why balance of power is undeterminable. Only by the collective method is it possible to reconcile defence with justice and with peace.

A good many unkind things have been said about Great Britain's connection with the League; the most common calumny is, that she is using the League as an instrument to further her own interests. But surely Great Britain's sincerity is proved by the fact that she recently allowed her armed forces to drift into such a state of weakness that she was almost unable to defend herself. This was a magnificent gesture!

Greatness lies not in being strong but in the right using of strength. I make no recriminations against any country but it is an unquestionable fact that the only member state of the League that was prepared even to make an effective preparation on behalf of the League was Great Britain. It does not seem to be appreciated, moreover, that the so-called British Empire is in itself a League of Nations. Canada, South Africa, Australia and other members of the British Commonwealth of Nations are so independent that its members federalize only one thing—defence—and even that is not put on the Statute but is only a sort of gentleman's understanding. We have no written obligations, no clause, no constitution that compels the British Government to go to the defence of say, Australia if attacked by a foreign power but if such an attack was made it is generally known that the British Forces would defend Australia. We have federalized defence throughout the Empire and for that reason these young states not yet very powerful or strong are able to grow up in peace and the contribution they really make to our common defence is a general understanding that we will go to them in the time of crisis as they will come to us—a truly collective system—a real League of Nations.

WAR NOT WANTED

The British Commonwealth of Nations is an indication of what the League of Nations can be. Its attitude will, I trust, strengthen all peace loving nations to combat the horrible fallacy that justice, liberty and compassion are figments of the brain and that the ruthless rule of force is the only law that governs human relationships. So far as one can judge no country in the world wants war and if the peace loving countries of the world in the League and out of the League will agree to combine against an aggressor a much needed reduction of armaments would result and more money would be available for social services.

The League of Nations, after all, is only an attempt to apply internationally what already exists in every well organised state, namely, a system of collective security. In the old days when every household in England was armed, bandits and highwaymen were much more common than they are to-day when scarcely a house has a firearm. This improvement is not due to an increase in household armaments but to the progress of education. This gave birth to a moral consciousness and a collective system of defence organised within the state.

To-day armed robbers and criminals meet practically the whole nation with apparatus of restraint consisting of detectives, police, etc. National criminals are punished whilst international crimes are glorified. An amazing state of affairs! It is said that the League is too idealistic to which I will let Carlyle reply. He said "Ideals can never be completely embodied in practice; and yet ideals exist, and if they be not approximated to at all, the whole matter goes to wreck."

COLLECTIVE METHOD

Whenever mention is made of the collective principle people begin to retort about Geneva and its failure and complications which really does not answer the problem. The question is whether or not the collective method is going to dominate foreign policy in respect of political conditions of defence? If it does, it will succeed. If not 1914 will be repeated with much worse results. Let us rid ourselves of the notion that it is weak and effeminate to believe in the League of Nations and international friendship. Let us cease worshipping the pomp of conquests and the feats of nations. As Shakespeare says "What! shall our feasts be kept with slaughtered men? Shall braying trumpets and loud churlish drums, clamorous of hell, be measures to our pomp?"

If the League still falls short of its high aims it can be justly claimed that it has stimulated

TALMA IDLE

Pending Repairs

AFTERMATH OF THE TYPHOON

The s.s. "Talma" left the Kowloon Wharf yesterday morning after discharging all her cargo into the Kowloon Godowns. She is at present anchored in Kowloon Bay pending instructions from her owners as to where she will be repaired. We understand her stern post and rudder is seriously damaged and will necessitate her lying up for about two months.

It will be recalled that the vessel took shelter at Junk Bay during the typhoon and during gales of nearly 130 miles per hour dragged her anchors and was carried through Lyeemun Channel causing damage to her rudder and bottom. She was eventually anchored safely in Kowloon Bay after a very trying time.

CRUELTY TO MUI TSAI ALLEGED

MISTRESS FINED

Much to the disconcerting surprise of Leong Sing Hing, 45, a married Chinese woman, Mr. Fraser, Secretary of Chinese Affairs, visited her at her residence, 28, Lee Yuen Street, and questioned her about the mul-tal there.

The young girl, Kwai Mui, who is only 13, alleged cruelty on the part of her mistress, but, on examination, no marks were found on her. She alleged that she had been beaten and the imposition of cruelty prompted the wish to return to her father.

She told Mr. Fraser that she was sold into slavery at the tender age of 9, and she came into the hands of Leong Sing Hing when she was sold to Leong Yik Wan, the second concubine. Her present mistress was the third concubine of the household.

Mr. Balfour fined Leong Sing Hing $75.

CORRESPONDENCE

Z. B. W.

"To the Editor of the 'Hong Kong Daily Press'"

Sir—Can nothing be done to curtail these "village concerts?" To-night we have three from the studio giving their well-known version of vomiting set to music, or an imitation of a nail on glass. Nowhere else in the world would it be tolerated.

Can anyone in their senses contend that this hideous noise is preferable to recorded music of any sort? Yet, Z.B.W. pay for this, instead of devoting the money to building up a wonderful library of the finest records available.

political thought about the organisation of international life on better foundations.

I have studiously refrained from saying anything likely to upset any national susceptibilities but I am nevertheless prepared to answer questions either now or through the medium of the Press on the subject of my address although I am not a member of the Society of the League of Nations.

THANKS EXPRESSED

Expressing thanks to the speaker for his interesting talk, Rotarian the Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington said that he knew very little about the political side of the League of Nations but he knew a considerable amount on the health side. He assured those present that what was being done had been done since the inception of the League.

Every week and very month, said the speaker, the local Health authorities were supplied with a list of diseases at the different Far Eastern ports and the ports that are under quarantine. And the number of cases and deaths from the diseases. All this was done by the League of Nations. Local conditions were always broadcast to incoming ships to Hong Kong.

COLONY'S RADIUM

Questions To Be Asked

LOAN WITHDRAWN?

Questions concerning radium treatment in Hong Kong are to be asked by the Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo at to-day's meeting of the Legislative Council, as follows:

1. Will Government be good enough to furnish to this Council a full statement on the question of the availability of radium treatment in Government Hospitals, with particular reference to the following points:—

(a) Is it a fact that a certain amount of radium was loaned to the Government Civil Hospital by a privately endowed institution, for the general use of the patients of the Government Civil Hospital? If so, what were the terms and conditions under which the loan was made?

(b) Is it a fact that the said loan was suddenly terminated? If the answer is in the affirmative, were any reasons given for terminating the said loan and, if so, what were the reasons?

(c) Is it a fact that since the withdrawal of the radium mentioned above, there has been no radium available at the Government Civil Hospital and other Government Hospitals, for the use of the general public?

2. Will Government consider the question of providing radium, under the control of the Honourable the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, for the use of the general public? And will Government consider the suitability of utilising, either wholly or in part, the proposed King George the Fifth Memorial Fund for the acquisition of radium for Hong Kong, so that it will be available to the poorest class in the community?

CENSORSHIP OF CHINESE PRESS

A motion to abolish the censorship of Chinese newspapers in Hong Kong is to be proposed in the Legislative Council to-day by the Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo. Mr. Lo's resolution is in the following terms:

"That in the opinion of this Council, the present censorship of the Chinese Press should be abrogated."

It is understood that the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga will second the motion.

OBITUARY

Mr. Samuel B. Luke

It is with deep regret that we have to record the death of Mr. Samuel B. Luke, proprietor of the Peking Embroidery House, who died at the French Hospital on Monday evening after a very brief illness.

The late Mr. Luke, who was 42 years of age at the time of his death, was born in Honolulu of the well-known family of Overseas Chinese.

Educated at La Salle College, New York, the late Mr. Luke was at one time with the Bank of Honolulu, and then with the family firm of Samuel B. Luke, Importers and Exporters of Honolulu.

The late Mr. Luke came to Hong Kong about ten years ago, and was manager of the Union Petroleum Company, which stopped business in 1930. He then became proprietor of the Peking Embroidery House, which business deceased had carried on until the time of his death.

The late Mr. Luke leaves a wife and a young son to mourn his death and to whom the deepest sympathy is extended.

THE FUNERAL

The funeral took place at the Chinese Christian Cemetery yesterday afternoon when Rev. S. F. Tso performed the burial services at the grave-side.

The principal mourners at the funeral were the deceased's wife and his young son, Master Luke Shing Chung.

A small gathering of relatives and friends were present at the funeral and a number of beautiful wreaths were also sent by the deceased's many friends.

WHO OWNS THE AIR?

There have been many highly contentious cases in courts throughout the world on the subject of air ownership. It was maintained, with some of authority, during the earlier stages of the "air" cases, that the owner of land was the owner of all that was above that land, namely, the air, and that it was trespass to fly over that land and through that air without the consent of the owner. Many cases, however, have been decided in the British courts to the effect that the owner of the land does not necessarily own the air above such land unless he utilises it.

In the United States of America this subject again came up for discussion in the courts when the owners of the property close to an airport claimed they owned 160 feet of air over it. The airplanes, leaving and arriving at the airport, flew through that space, and the property owners sued for damages for trespass. Justice Bert E. Haney declared:

"The sky has no definite location, and, like the sea, is incapable of private ownership. The owner of land owns as much of the air above him as he uses, but only so long as he uses it. All that lies beyond belongs to the world."

The case presents an interesting phase of the mounting complexities inventions bring to modern existence. Legal minds will probably work out new legislation to meet new conditions. Certainly it seems that some equitable adjustment satisfactory to airmen and landowners will eventually have to be made. Traffic restrictions have been imposed in Europe forbidding foreign airmen to fly over another country's territory.

It is fast becoming almost impossible to look up without seeing an airplane. Few are the homes where the approaching drone of the aerial combustion engine is not familiar. It is not difficult to envisage the rapidly nearing day—and night—when its hum may definitely disturb.

Will the engineers overcome the difficulties which so far have prevented the silencing of motors before restive rural and suburban dwellers demand reasonable regulation?

Shots Fired At Soldiers

Gunmen Outrage In Peiping Street

BRITISH EMBASSY ACTION

Peiping, Aug. 25.

A number of gunmen, who up till the present have not yet been identified, fired seven shots from a motor car at three British soldiers here at midnight last night.

The incident occurred as the soldiers were returning to their barracks in the Legation Quarter from the cinema.

They were proceeding along the main east-to-west road, just north of the Legation Quarter, when a big closed car drove up from behind, and the occupants thrust out two revolvers and fired seven shots at the tommies who were then passing the Grand Hotel de Pekin.

None of the soldiers were hit but a rickshaw man was struck on the leg, though not seriously injured.

After the shooting the car drove rapidly away and a Chinese policeman who was on point duty about fifty yards away tried unsuccessfully to stop the car. He declared that the vehicle bore no licence plate, and because the night was overcast, and the street indifferently lighted, the soldiers were unable to judge the nationality of the attackers.

The British Embassy has made representations to the Chinese authorities, requesting that proper measures be taken to protect British lives and property.

All the three soldiers were members of the Worcester Regiment forming the Embassy guard.—Reuter.

WOMAN SHOT IN LEG

Armed Robber Outrage

Four men, one armed with a revolver attempted to perpetrate a robbery in a busy section of Wanchai near Arsenal Street, at 11 a.m. yesterday, but owing to the bravery of a woman, were forced to make a speedy exit without any material gain.

The woman, Yip Wai Fam, of No. 3 Star Street, was shot in the leg and seriously wounded when she raised an alarm. The other inmates of the flat covered before before the pointed gun.

In spite of her leg wound, the woman Yip shouted for help, with the result that the desperadoes grew frightened and ran away. Three were armed with scissor blades.

The wounded woman was removed to the Government Civil Hospital, where late enquiries revealed that she was progressing favourably.

There was a clean bill of Health in the Colony for the 24 hours ended on Monday.

CHINA RAILWAY LOAN REPAYMENTS

London Disappointed At Low Interest Rate

London, Aug. 25.

The Chinese Government announcement regarding the resumption of interest payment on the Lunghai and Kowloon-Canton railways has received a mixed reception in the London Stock Exchange.

Rumours that the Lunghai railway will shortly be resuming has so long been rife that the immediate effect was a fractional fall in the bonds, some quarters even expressing disappointment that the interest rate was not starting at better than 14 per cent.

The market attributes that the trend of the Lunghai bonds were over bought to its present position, resulting in the liquidation by stale "bulls," but many point out that the Lunghai interest will, within two years, be at least equal to the Kowloon-Canton Railway payments, although at the present the Lunghai are a better buy than the Kowloon-Canton.

A spectacular jump in the price of the Kowloon-Canton bonds surprised many who were not expecting any immediate payment of more than 14 or 2 per cent, but the market realises that the discrepancy in the price movements in both the Lunghai and Kowloon-Canton, are largely attributable to the difference in the amounts outstanding: Kowloon-Canton amount to only £171,000 plus drawn bonds 940,000 whereas Lunghai amount to £4,000,000. At present Lunghai are 32 sellers and Kowloon 32 bid.—Reuter.

CHINA "GROWING RESPECTABLE"

London, Aug. 25.

"Really China is growing almost too respectable," smiled Mr. Quo Tai-chi, the Chinese Ambassador when interviewed by Reuter regarding the recent loan settlements, and the popularity of Chinese loans as compared with a few years ago. Financial editors give prominence to the latest settlements, the "Financial Times" featuring an article by F. K. Pan, Chief Secretary at the Chinese Ministry of Railways, which emphasises the importance of the Chinese Government attaches to liquidating debts and restoring the National credit, especially with the view to obtaining fresh capital for the construction of new railways.

The Chinese Government is perfectly sincere with its creditors, and only asked that they show a similar spirit in the negotiation, and recognise the changed conditions in both China, and the world. Pan ended by saying that there were many indications in recent months of the increasing tendency to take a favourable view of the conditions in China, and Nanking's success in handling the southern revolt has created a good impression.

Many observers remark on the less disturbing character of Japanese policy towards China since the Tokyo mutiny on February 2, last while some observers regret the cancellation of a portion of the railway debts as condoning the principle of repudiation, but generally the agreements are welcomed, and the Chinese difficulties and desire to make good is recognised.—Reuter.

MILITARY SERVICE EXTENSION IN GERMANY

Calm Reception By Paris Press

POLITICAL CIRCLES UNEASY

Trend Of Increasing Armaments

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Paris, August 25. Chancellor Hitler's decree, prolonging the duration of the military service from one to two years did not come as a surprise to official quarters here, papers having for some days past published reports that such a measure was contemplated and imminent.

The press, in general, received the news much more calmly than it had received the news of the introduction of compulsory military service for all branches of the Defence Force in 1935 or the intimation in March this year of Germany's intention to re-occupy the Rhineland.

Political circles here nevertheless express uneasiness at the general trend of political affairs in Europe, especially at the increasing increase of armaments in all countries.

FRENCH ISOLATION

The "Echo de Paris" voices the opinion that the two measures taken by the German Government on Monday—the declaration of an embargo towards Spain and the increase of compulsory military service to two years—are closely connected with each other.

The paper assumes that Hitler will explain both measures with the will for peace, which has invariably formed the basis of this policy. The latter measure, according to the "Echo de Paris," is clearly directed against Bolshevism. If, so the paper says, Bolshevism should emerge victorious from Spain, then it is quite possible that the conflagration will spread to France.

The paper is of the opinion that in consequence of the recent events France runs the risk of being still more isolated, since the fear of Bolshevism in view of the uncertainty prevailing must draw more than one country nearer to Germany.

PRESS APPROVAL

Berlin, Aug. 25. As with one voice the whole German Press joins in a chorus of approval of the Government's latest decree, prolonging the period of military service from one to two years.

Under the heading "Germany takes precautionary measures," the Party Organ, "Völkischer Beobachter" writes:

"After the latest developments in recent history, Germany does not intend to let herself be surprised. The armies of nearly all countries around Germany have periods of service exceeding one year. Germany is now adopting the same measure, and in this connection it must be remembered that a large section of the German Defence Force, for instance the Navy and various specialist troops, have already a period of service of several years.

The German step gives the whole nation a feeling of security and peace at the present time. Leading men of the Reich and millions of the population have experienced the horrors of war, and have not forgotten them. Germany does not want war. Germany wants to protect herself from war, and therefore she takes precautions. Peace is assured more firmly than ever."

The "Berliner Nachtausgabe" issued a special number with the news of the increase of the period of military service, and writes:

SOVIET EFFORTS

"The German Nation has been observing with extreme disquietude how Soviet Russia has been making ever increasing efforts to ensure victory of her aim: The accomplishment of the World Revolution." The Soviet Russian Military decree of August 11, which prolonged the military service by two years, means that the Red Army is doubled. The Red Fortifications in the Baltic particularly give evidence that the formation of the immense troops was not undertaken for any internal reasons, but is directed against Europe."

The paper goes on to say that in view of this situation the Chancellor has decided to intro-

REICHSTAG TO BE SUMMONED

Berlin, August 25. Chancellor Hitler is summoning the Reichstag at Nuremberg during the Party Congress to be held from September 8 to 14, the chief item on the agenda being a passage in the laws dealing with the future of the German Youth who will probably be mobilised for State service on the lines of the Italians at Balilla.—Reuter.

SEMI-MILITARY TRAINING

Berlin, Aug. 25. One of the most important meetings so far of the new German Reichstag is to be held during the party congress at Nuremberg on Sept. 8 to 14. The chief item on the agenda will be legislation affecting German Youth.

It is believed that from a certain age upwards without distinction of class or education, the children will be taken from the hands of parents for active semi-military training. The girls will be trained in all kinds of agricultural and nursing work to make them fit as mothers of the new German nation.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

duce two years' military service, and in so doing shows the German people that Germany is unflinching in its determination and has also the strength to ensure her freedom and independence. There was not the slightest occasion for any War psychosis—"on the contrary, with this precautionary measure the Fuehrer gives us a feeling of security and makes it manifest that through our strength peace is more assured than ever."

Other papers point out that in recent years it was just those states which were bound by military alliances, namely France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union which have increased their service period, and further that Germany has a low birthrate for some years, whereby the intended strength of the German Army could not be attained in one year's service period.

NATIONAL SECURITY

In a leading article the "Berliner Lokal Anzeiger" points out that the responsibility which the Chancellor and the Defence Force carry for the protection of the German Nation in its peaceful work of reconstruction called for immediate action in face of the complete alternation of the military and political situation through immense rearmaments.

The Fuehrer and the National Socialist State have never failed to do what is necessary quickly and thoroughly. With deep satisfaction the German Nation sees once more to-day that it can rely unreservedly upon its leadership.

The Fuehrer expects and we know for certain that he will not

GEN. VON BLOMBERG
Chief of the Reichwehr

be disappointed that the German people's assent as one man to the necessity and that the German Youth undertake the sacrifice as honourable service to the Fuehrer and Reich. This sacrifice of time and expense is slight in view of the fact that increased peace of mind is gained, and increased security.

The alarming news of armaments all over the world has created a certain anxiety—it will be removed by the measure taken by the Reich, which under no circumstances desires a new war, which could only create misery and chaos, but wants sound and lasting peace.—Transocean News Service.

TERMS OF GERMAN DECREE

Berlin, Aug. 24. The period of active service in the German Defence Force has been extended from one to two years, according to a decree issued by the German Chancellor. The decree by virtue of relevant clauses of the Defence Law enacts that the period of active service in the three branches of the German Defence Forces, is hereby uniformly fixed at two years. The War Ministry and the Commander-in-Chief of the Army will issue the necessary orders and provisional regulations for the execution of this decree.

Monday's issue of the "National Socialist Party Bulletin" contains the following commentary on the decree:

"While the great Olympic Festival of Peace was being held in Berlin, and Germany was happy to be able to give her guests an insight into the peace and order of the present-day Reich, the world is quaking in many places under the terrors of bloody Civil War and wild economic strife. A numerically small group of agitators, who are however in the pay of their racial entanglement exert powerful influence in an attempt to plunge the world into a chaos of Communist destruction. Enormous armaments are intended to put the Bolshevik militarist into a position to achieve this task. For three years National Socialism has freed Germany from the internal attack of Bolshevism, incendiaries and murders. In a revolution of unprecedented orders and discipline the National Socialist Movement secured for Germany the blessings of internal social peace, and thereby provided the essentials for a growing economic prosperity.

NO CAPITULATION

Whereas Spain is now being turned into a desert under the curse of Marxist terrorism, unique efforts for the reconstruction of German economic life are being made in National Socialist Germany. When one of the Bolshevik leaders now declares with cynical frankness, that the task of the Red Army under certain circumstances will be to bring about a revolution by an attack from the outside in those countries which have hitherto resisted internal Bolshevik agitation, National Socialist Germany will no more capitulate in face of such an announcement, than it did when confronted with the threats of the Moscow-pain agitators in Germany itself.

Just as the National Socialist Party guarantees economic peace, so will the National Socialist Army of the Reich ensure external peace.

History has taught us that it is better—if necessary—to make great sacrifices for this peace than to sink into a Bolshevik chaos.

Confronted with Soviet Imperialism and its military machine, Germany, as guardian of its own peace and thereby protector of its civilization, will take the necessary measures for guaranteeing the independence of the nation under all circumstances.—Transocean News Service.

MOSCOW TRIAL SENTENCES

Pungent Comment By Trotsky

Oslo, Aug. 24. M. Trotsky has commented pungently on the death sentences passed in Moscow on M. Zinovieff, M. Kamenef and fourteen others accused of plotting the murder of M. Stalin and the overthrowing of the present Soviet regime. Apparently they were sentenced to death despite a promise which they got from the OGPU that their lives would be saved if they pleaded guilty, said Trotsky.

Trotsky suggests that unknown spies, like M. Bernman, M. Oldberg and M. David, may not be executed, but that they will be released under other names and possibly receive promotion.—Reuter.

MEN EXECUTED

NEW FACTORIES IN BRITAIN

Greater Employment Prospects

London, August 25. Last year 510 new factories employing nearly 50,000 people were opened in Great Britain and 192 were extended. Of the new factories 213 employing 19,000 people were in Greater London. The Board of Trade survey of the 1935 industrial development, in recording these figures, finds no evidence, of the drift to the South of England in the sense that the new factories there are the results of the transfer from North. The new movement is shown to be in the opposite direction. Only one northern factory was transferred to the south while five southern factories were removed to Northern England.—British Wireless.

DROUGHT HAVOC IN CANADA

Thousand Deprived Of Livelihood

Ottawa, Aug. 24. The Finance Minister, Mr. Charles Dunning, announced to-day that about 200,000 persons in southern Saskatchewan and Alberta had been deprived by the drought of even the vestige of a means of livelihood. They will be aided by the co-operative efforts of the provinces concerned and the Dominion Government.

The measures to be taken include the provision of relief on the standards prevailing in other parts of the provinces concerned, and the development of rehabilitation efforts, such as the building of dams to conserve the water supplies of the affected areas. There will be an immediate slaughter of low grade cattle and the removal of the commercial grade cattle to feeding grounds, elsewhere.

The affected area in the past was one of the finest wheat growing countries in the West, though the crop was never dependable in the best of years.—Reuter.

Tokyo, Aug. 25. Mr. Mamoru Shigemitsu, former Minister to China and subsequently Vice-Minister of foreign affairs has been appointed as Ambassador to Moscow in succession to Mr. Ohta who resigned following his recent return to Japan. Mr. Shigemitsu will proceed to Russia in November. The Moscow post is regarded as one of the plums of the Japanese diplomatic service. Mr. Shigemitsu lost a leg as a result of the bombing outrage in Hongkew Park, Shanghai, in 1932, when acting as Consul General.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

BELGIAN LEGATION SEARCHED

Red Militia Ignores Protest

Paris, Aug. 24. That the present rulers in Spain are not willing even to respect the extraterritorial rights enjoyed by the Diplomatic Corps was evidenced on Monday, when the building containing the offices of the Belgian Legation as well as the official residence of the Charge d'Affaires, was entered and searched by Red Militia. Protests of the staff, who pointed out that the building was protected by its extraterritoriality, were disregarded by the Reds who refused to depart before having made a thorough search of the premises.—Transocean News Service.

SPANISH CIVIL WAR MEDIATION

EFFORT TO MITIGATE SUFFERING

Ambassadors In Madrid Submit Proposals

London, August 25. The joint action by the powers in regard to some possible steps, apart from non-intervention, to hasten the end of the Spanish civil war, or at least to mitigate as far as possible the suffering, hardship and material loss which it entails on the people of Spain, is strongly urged by the English newspapers. It has now become known that in several capitals, including London, the possibility of measures on a humanitarian basis has been under consideration and it is understood that the subject has been raised by the Argentine Ambassador as the doyen of the Madrid Diplomatic Corps at Hendaye where, on the French side of the frontier, most of the Ambassadors to Spain are at present staying.

The Argentine Ambassador, who has the support of the French and British Ambassadors, has put forward certain proposals of which one is for the exchange of civil prisoners, but progress is difficult owing to the confusion which invariably accompanies civil war.

FOREIGN PLAN TO STOP CIVIL WAR

London, August 25. The British, French, Argentine and other Ambassadors in Madrid have submitted their Governments' proposals to mitigate the conduct of the Spanish civil war. The plan is now being considered in London.—Reuter.

MEDIATION PLAN

Students Divided In Opinion

Monte Negro, Aug. 25. The Uruguayan Foreign Minister expressed thanks to other South American countries for their acceptance of his country's plan for mediation in the Spanish civil war and suggests that these Republics send delegations to meet at Buenos Aires to discuss steps to carry out the plan.

In the meanwhile students of the National University are divided in their support of the two sides in the Spanish civil war. The law students sent a telegram expressing moral support for the insurgents, while the medical students likewise sent a similar telegram to the Government in Madrid.—Reuter.

NAMELESS STAMPSNEW ISSUE WITH ALTERATIONS?

In the near future presumably there will be a new issue of postage stamps bearing a portrait of the head of King Edward, Great Britain is the only country in the world that does not indicate by an actual name the place of origin of its stamps, and it has been suggested by a correspondent that the new issue should correct this omission by putting "Great Britain" at the foot, say, where at present the price is given in words. There will be many to object to this, however, as it is more or less a point of pride that our stamps need no label to make themselves known to foreigners!

"BRITISH—NOT ENGLISH"

It is just there, however, that this correspondent finds his reason for the proposed change, because he lets it be known that he is a Scotsman! His objection, apparently, is not so much that our stamps are out of line with the others of the world in having no country of origin printed on them, but that in the absence of the name they are known abroad as "English" stamps! Properly named stamps, he feels, would do a little to disabuse foreigners of the idea that England is Great Britain.

ACADEMY

Sold For £11,697

As the Royal Academy Exhibition closes on August 3, special arrangements have been made for holiday visitors from the Provinces.

To-day the exhibition is open until 10 p.m.—an extra three hours at night—and the admission charge all day will be a shilling, instead of 1s. 6d.

The price of the catalogues will also be reduced—from 1s. to 6d.

Sales at the Academy are expected to approach those of last year, which produced the highest figure for a long period.

Up to almost the end of July last year 280 pictures had been sold for £11,688. This year the number—255—is slightly less, but the average price is higher, the total being £11,697.

Not so many municipal galleries have bought this year; there are more private buyers, including a fair number of Americans.

There is a good deal of talk this year of other towns adopting the schemes arranged at Liverpool, Glasgow and other centres for having autumn exhibitions which include a proportion of the unsold Academy pictures.

CITY OF LONDON'S MACE
FOR VANCOUVER

The Mace which the Lord Mayor is taking as a gift from the City of London to the City of Vancouver was on view at Guildhall recently. It is a replica of the Mace which is in everyday use in the City, with slight differences as to arms. The Mace is of silver gilt, 5ft. 3in. long.

The bowl, or head, is divided by vertical bands into four compartments which bear the new Royal cypher—probably the first piece of plate to bear it—the maple leaf, the arms of the City of Vancouver, and the arms of the City of London. The Royal Arms are on the flat top.

The Mace is inscribed with the words: "Presented by the Corporation of the City of London to the City of Vancouver, on the occasion of the visit of the Lord Mayor, Sir Percy Vincent, and a deputation from the Corporation of London, in connexion with the celebration of the jubilee of the incorporation of the City of Vancouver, August, 1936."

A reproduction of the City Mace made in 1735, it differs only in order to include the maple leaf and the English rose—and, of course, the inscription. The makers, Messrs. Hickleton and Sydal, of Queen Street, Cheapside, secured silver specially from Canada for the work, which has been executed entirely by London craftsmen who are freemen of the Goldsmiths' Company.

The gilding is also special, the craftsmen having been able to "mercurial-fire-gild" it after the same fashion as the original.

HOME BEQUEATHED TO
NATIONSIR C. TREVELYAN'S
GIFT

Sir Charles Trevelyan, who was Minister of Education in the last Socialist Government, has decided to bequeath his home at Wallington, Cambo, Northumberland and the Wallington estate of 13,000 acres to the National Trust.

The bequest, which is the first of its kind in the history of the Trust, will come into effect on the death of Sir Charles. Conditions are that the house and grounds shall be accessible to the people for all time, that the estate shall not be broken up, and that Lady Trevelyan and, after her, his children shall live at Wallington House as tenants of the Trust as long as they wish to do so.

Announcing his decision, at a garden party, Sir Charles said: "I have had to think a good deal about the future of this countryside. I do not believe in private ownership of land. I regard myself solely as a trustee of Wallington for the community."

Sir Charles is Lord Lieutenant of Northumberland.

LINER LAUNCHED
ON THE CLYDESailing Ship Of Same
Name Recalled

Glasgow, August 5. Ninety years ago Barclay, Currie and Co., Limited, of Whiteinch, Glasgow, launched the City of Benares, a sailing ship of 731 tons, for the City Line, which is now an adjunct of the Ellerman Lines.

To-day the same firm launched an 11,000-ton turbine passenger steamer bearing the same name for the Ellerman Lines.

The new City of Benares, which was named by Mrs. H. S. Holden, will be managed by the City Line, Limited, Bothwell Street, Glasgow. She will have accommodation for 219 passengers. The propelling machinery consists of Parsons impulse reaction type turbines driving through single reduction mechanical gearing. The ship is designed for a speed of 15 knots.

subsidy, said that the Government would have to help some of the great lines which could not carry on without help in competition with highly subsidized foreign ships. Shipbuilders who, he added, had done a great deal to put their industry on a sound basis were endeavouring to follow shipping conference lines by agreeing among themselves not to "take orders in competition at losing prices."

Mr. H. S. Holden, managing director of Ellerman Lines, said that the City Line was approaching its centenary, and he hoped that when that date arrived in 1939 there would be in course of construction a sister ship to the City of Benares. After referring to the difficulties with which ship-owners had been faced for many years, Mr. Holden said that the Ellerman Lines had successfully weathered all the storms and looked forward with confidence to maintaining their prominent position in the future. They had now two new vessels nearing completion and had just ordered six more. Their policy would be to keep their fleet up to the highest standard of efficiency by replacing old steamers with new ones.

JAPANESE MYTH IS EXPLODED
AT HENLEY
REGATTAA SERIOUS CHALLENGE

Henley, Eng.—A Japanese rowing myth—if one may term it so, entirely without disrespect—was exploded here in the course of the annual Royal Regatta recently. It was not created by the enthusiastic Japanese eight from Tokyo Imperial University who raced so pluckily and at such a prodigious rate of striking. It was created by the folk who averred that their method of super-quick time rowing was a serious challenge to time-honored Western conceptions of oarsmanship, boat-rig and boat construction.

The eight little men from Tokyo stabbed their abbreviated shell along by strokes that they can execute at the rate of almost one a second, and it is declared that they can actually put in more than 60 to the minutes under pressure. Here they made the old die-hards swoon by doing a mere 56. But they could do it successfully only once. They beat Quintin Boat Club, not a very strong boatload, with some ease on the opening day, but the next time out they ran up against Zurich R. C., of Switzerland. And that was the end of Japan's first attempt to win the Grand Challenge Cup. In Britain a race beyond the late thirties is considered fast.

Zurich, an extremely powerful eight, met in the final the Leander crew, which will represent Britain in the Olympic Games. And the Swiss were victorious. Four members of the Zurich crew went on to win the Stewards Cup afterward, and their countryman, E. Rudl, retained the Diamond Sculls. On this showing, Switzerland should make a brave show in August at the Olympic Regatta. The eight that won the Grand are an outstandingly good, smoothly moving combination, averaging 174 pounds in weight. They beat the Japanese by six lengths and Leander by 11.

THE EUROPEAN LINE-UP

The European line-up towards the Spanish civil war is clear-cut. Italy and Germany favour the "rebels" of General Franco. The sympathies of France and, of course, Russia are with the legal Government.

In Italy and Germany a Government-controlled Press regales its readers with tales of Communist atrocities. In France and Russia it is the cruelty of the rebels which is held up to execration.

Both accounts are substantially true. As far as cruelty goes, there is nothing to choose between the blood-lust of the Barcelona mob and the savagery of General Franco's Moorish soldiery.

FRANCE'S DIFFERENT ROLE

A hundred and sixteen years ago there was a similar revolution in Spain, when the Radicals under the leadership of Rafael Riego revolted against the brutality of King Ferdinand.

Then, as now, Britain was for non-intervention. But the rôle of France was different. Anxious for his own throne and urged by

SOLDIERS DISCHARGED FROM ARMY

Attack On Europeans

COURT MARTIAL'S FINDINGS

An attack by two soldiers of the 2nd Battalion, East Lancashire Regiment on two Europeans, Messrs. G. Bond and E. L. Curtis, both of No. 802, Nathan Road, on the night of July 25 led to the men concerned, Privates E. Sullivan and T. C. K. Masters appearing before a District Court Martial last week when they were found guilty of common assault.

The sentence of the Court which was delivered yesterday was that both men were to serve 18 months' imprisonment with hard labour and discharged with ignominy from His Majesty's forces.

The attack as recalled by evidence given during the trial was to the effect that on the night in question Mr. Bond was attracted by the sounding of his motor car horn parked outside his house. On investigating he found the soldiers in his car so he asked them to leave upon which he was set upon by the men. Mr. Bond called for assistance and Mr. Curtis arrived on the scene and he too was attacked. Curtis had to fire a round from his firearm in order to scare the men. Both the civilians were badly knocked about before the arrival of the Police who took both men into custody.

MORE EVIDENCE ESSENTIAL

IN BACTERIOLOGICAL AFFAIR

An important point regarding future evidence by Government bacteriological experts, was voiced by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor during the hearing of a manslaughter trial yesterday.

The witness was being cross-examined by the Assistant Attorney General as to the amount of blood on deceased's coat, when His Lordship intervened and said that so far as he could recollect, no specific evidence had been called on this point.

According to his own deposition of Dr. Pringle's evidence mention was made that there was blood on three garments. Whether it was a large quantity or was caused by a mere cut finger, was not revealed in the medical evidence.

In future, said His Lordship more specific evidence on this point should be given. Expert evidence as to the blood itself was also essential.

Under these circumstances witness could not be further cross-examined on the point.

The Assistant Attorney General said that His Lordship's suggestion would be noted.

BUS DRIVER LOSES LEGAL TILT

COMPLAINT BY EUROPEAN

Before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday, Yeung Wing was fined $20 for driving without due care and caution.

Dr. J. B. Mackie was the complainant against the driver, Yeung Wing, of the China Bus Company.

On August 10, Dr. Mackie was driving his car, 4293, on the road to Deep Water Bay when turning a bend near Shau Son Hill, a bus, number 415, came around the corner well over the white line in the middle of the road.

In avoiding a head-on collision Dr. Mackie had to drive well over to the left, and, in doing so, scraped his left front mudguard on the rock on his left, and his

CAR CRASHED AGAINST EMBANKMENT

THREE OF A FAMILY IN HOSPITAL

A motor accident in which three members of the same family were admitted to the War Memorial Hospital suffering from shock was reported to the Police yesterday.

While driving a Ford V8, No. 1739 down Stubbs Road towards town at about 8.30 a.m. on Monday, Mrs. Adamczewski, wife of Dr. Adamczewski, residing at No. 377 the Peak had with her two sons aged nine and seven years respectively. When opposite the Peak Church she attempted to take a left hand bend and in doing so lost control of the car and crashed against the embankment. The car then ricocheted to the opposite side of the road, struck the wall and finally came to rest on the left embankment again.

The lady driver and her two children were not seriously injured, but were taken to the War Memorial Hospital by a passing motorist, Mr. Alexander, suffering from shock. They are likely to remain in hospital a few days.

The car was rather badly damaged in front, the head lamps, radiator, fog lamp and bumper being smashed.

He stopped his car, and pointed out the damages to the driver and Inspector of the bus, and went to report to the Police Station.

The damages to his car amounted to $85.

Yeung Wing denied all allegations that he saw any damage to his bus. It was not until, after the bus had passed the other car that he heard a crash.

He stopped the bus, and Dr. Mackie spoke to the Inspector, of which he did not understand a thing.

PHILIPPINE MINING
NEWSHydro Plant Nearly Ready

Hydro-electric plant number three, which is being constructed under the personal direction of Mayor E. J. Halsema, is nearing completion. The generator and the water turbine for the plant have been installed and are being tested. It was learned this week. The switchboard for the same plant has already been shipped from Manila, according to dispatches received here, and as soon as it reaches Baguio will be installed. The plant will soon be ready for its final test and consequently its operation.

Some transformers for this plant are also being expected soon. In the meanwhile, it will be possible to utilize the plant as a standby in case of a shutdown in one of the other units now operating. The mayor told the Bulletin which will connect this plant with hydro-electric number two and then with Camp seven is now under construction. With this addition, he said that the city power will be increased by approximately 900 kilowatts during the rainy season and about 400 kilowatts during the dry months.

The project, which was started two years ago, will cost the government approximately P200,000. Mayor Halsema pointed out that new street lights have already been installed in the market plaza. They are of the sodium vapor type and give out strong yellowish lights. This is an entirely new development in street lighting, for the Pines City.

If the people of Baguio show a preference to this peculiar street lighting, it is possible that the city may install these lights on all the streets here.

BENGUET SAYS
RUMOUR FALSE

There is no basis to any rumours that Benguet Consolidated is contemplating taking over King Solomon on any kind of a contract, A. F. Dugleby, vice-president of Benguet, told the Bulletin this week.

An examination of King Solomon was made by Benguet, but the results did not lead to a contract. The following letter, dated July 23, 1936, was sent to King Solomon by Benguet regarding the examination:

"We have just received the final report of our Mr. G. C. Worthington on his examination of the King Solomon mine.

"After careful study of this report and maps accompanying it, we are very sorry to say that we do not consider that the property offers sufficient possibilities of developing substantial tonnages of payable ore to justify our consideration of an operating contract concerning it at this time."

The letter was signed by Mr. Dugleby.

DEMONSTRATION TO PAY 10 PER CENT.

Demonstration will pay 10 per cent interim dividend of 10 per cent on September 20, A. W. Ralston, president, said recently. This will amount to P100,000.

New tonnage records were made at Demonstration Gold Mines during July, according to George A. Bell, acting general superintendent, as a result of the efficiency of the new washing and crushing plant, 6,784.5 tons were handled. This unit did a good job of washing clayey ores, and of coarse and fine grinding, entirely replacing the 15 by 20-inch jaw crusher, the grizzly, and one ball mill. The saving in power, labour, and ball mill liners is expected to be more than enough to offset the cost of the new unit.
